

TRENDS BY DELABIE MAGAZINE - ISSUE #2

Reinventing usage. Allying performance and design experience in public places.

DELABIE presents issue #2 of its Design magazine “Trends by DELABIE”.

This magazine is entirely dedicated to architects, interior designers and, more generally, to those who are passionate about Design, and sensitive to the harmony of places and things.

Following on from the Pop Art universe, Street Art takes pride of place in the second edition of the Design magazine “TRENDS by DELABIE”.

The products - conceived by DELABIE - are associated with urban art to highlight a common goal: “offering the experience of the Beautiful, to all, on a daily basis”, and to make public places more aesthetically pleasing.

Inside TRENDS by DELABIE, specifiers will find major architectural projects where the brand's products are installed all over the world, since DELABIE products are installed in more than 90 countries worldwide. This year there is a dossier dedicated to Lille, World Design Capital in 2020. Inside, specifiers will also find specification trends and interviews with prominent designers and architects who talk about their projects and their passions, as well as some installations featuring DELABIE's most attractive products. This magazine, dedicated to design-led sanitary ware in public and commercial places, is unique.

Via this magazine, DELABIE demonstrates that it is possible, and even essential, to create very attractive sanitary installations, not only in large public projects such as airports, universities, healthcare facilities, museums and large corporations' head offices, but also in more intimate public places such as medical treatment rooms, gyms, restaurants or even bars. A building's image is also reflected in its washrooms. DELABIE designs water controls and sanitary ware that are, primarily, robust and easy to maintain, but also aesthetically pleasing.

The sanitary spaces created by DELABIE subscribe to, rather than break away from, the architectural and decorative continuity of the building, as evidenced by their presence in large international projects.

Renewing the experience and reinventing uses, deciphering and anticipating trends - such is the DNA of DELABIE which strives to weave a link between design, architecture and function, and to provide an aesthetically pleasing experience in public and commercial places for the greatest number of people possible.
